You might've seen this video earlier this year, when I guest lectured at my alma mater, Duke University, in @aarondinin's class and talked about the thing people miss most when it comes to managing frustration and taking on hard tasks. It was one of my favorite moments, and the response from you...

My big announcement Meet Branches: My new elementary level curriculum. It's everything I've needed in a curriculum, but never found - so I wrote what I wanted for my family and for others. It's multi-age. It's learning for all families (homeschool or traditional school). It's built...

Not every sign of love looks like hugs and "I love you." 🤴Sometimes it looks like them arguing their case like a Hollywood defense lawyer. Sometimes it's them disappearing into their own little world for hours. Sometimes it's the bathroom jokes. The corrections. 👸The "watch me" followed...

We're obsessed with skills, reps, practice, power skating, extra training… all the things that make kids better at their sport. But the biggest obstacle for most young athletes isn't their speed, their shot, or their talent. It's what happens in their head. And it still blows my mind that so many...
